Will Edward, "Wally" Find Their Haven Here?

DUKE RESTS IN AUSTRIAN HAVEN

Rothschild Castle Opened for Edward After Trip From Great Britain

ENZESFELD, Austria, Dec. 14—(UP)—A nerve specialist and an ear specialist have been summoned to attend the Duke of Windsor, seeking seclusion at the ancient castle here after his abdication as King Edward VIII of Great Britain.

The ear specialist is Prof. Heinrich Von Neumann, who treated the duke's ears when, as king, he visited Vienna several months ago with Mrs. Wallis Simpson for whom he gave up his throne.

It was not known who the nerve specialist would be but it was understood he would be a Jew, and a matter of protest ran through the ranks of Austrian Nazis who recalled that, in Austria, the duke had shown before a preference for Jewish physicians.

OHIO WOMAN AND THREE CHILDREN DIES IN FLAMES

AKRON, Dec. 14—(UP)—George Thomas, 37, lay critically ill today of burns suffered when fire swept his home, unaware that his 30-year-old wife, Mary, an expectant mother, and their three children perished in the flames.

The fire broke out early Sunday while the family was sleeping. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas reached safety outside when they discovered their children had not followed them.

They returned but the fire had gained such headway they were unable to escape.

Firemen found the family, huddled together in the bathroom. Only the father, in a semi-conscious condition, was alive.

Assistant Fire Chief Vernotzky said the fire started by hot ashes thrown in a pasteboard box.

Mrs. Rose Rice and her daughter, Rosalie, 18, living in one side of the double house, escaped, as did a family living on the third floor.

The dead, besides Mrs. Thomas, were Magdalene, 13, Anna May, 12, and George, Jr., 8.

Conservation Department May Confiscate Vehicles

COLUMBUS, Dec. 14—(UP)—The Ohio Conservation division, to curb violations of game laws, will confiscate automobiles of any persons shooting pheasants out of seasons from their cars.

U. S. BUYS 531 ACRES OF HULSE LAND IN COUNTY

Deed Recorded Showing Sale of Property to Develop Resettlement Program

PRICE OF $34,450 PAID

Work on Model Farms to Start in Short Time

Purchase of an additional 531.67 acres of Pickaway county land in Jackson and Wayne townships for the government resettlement program has been completed.

The land was purchased from I. Smith Hulse and his wife, Dorothy M. Hulse, for $34,450, a deed on file in the recorder's office reveals. Purchase of the land was made by Ronald D. Miller, of Zanesville, special attorney of the department of justice.

Construction of model farms under the program will begin within six weeks, Philip C. Beck, of Indianapolis, regional director, announced. The first project will be that in northern Ross and southern Pickaway counties. The Hulse farm will make nine units; lands of the Prudential Insurance farm, south of Atlanta, five, and the Imnell holdings in northern Ross and Pickaway counties, 10.

Land has been purchased in Ross, Fayette, Tuscarawas, Coshocton, Harrison, Madison, and Franklin counties in addition to this county.

The land cost from $70 to $100 an acre and it is estimated each farm will produce an income of $500 in addition to payments on loans, taxes and upkeep.

Ohioans on Farms

Ohio citizens, not just storm refugees, will be placed on the homestead farms. They will be sold the land and buildings, worth about $9,000 a unit, with a five-room house, barn, outbuildings, fences, grain, livestock and equipment. Until the farmer proves his ability to pay for the farm at actual cost he will occupy the land under lease.

The debt will be on a 40-year term with interest at 3 per cent.

S. M. Gumore, supervising engineer in farm construction, with his office in Chillicothe, will return from a Florida trip about the first week in January. Work is expected to start about that time.

END OF TAX ON FOODS REDUCED COUNTY INCOME

A severe cut in the income to local governments from the removal of the sales tax on food was noted Monday in the county auditor's office when a distribution of the November tax was completed.

In November the sales tax amounted to $1,930.58 as compared to $2,953.79 in October.

Employees said the average monthly income from tax was about $2,200. Due to heavy buying during December for the Christmas season the tax this month is expected to surpass that of November, but employees attributed the reduction in November largely to exemptions on food.

Republican Editorial Group Hits Campaign

COLUMBUS, Dec. 14—(UP)—Conduct of the Republican presidential campaign was criticized today in a statement issued by the Ohio Republican Editorial association, an organ of the G. O. P. state organization.

One of the faux pas of the campaign, the statement reads, "was the frenzied and abortive effort of the national committee to make an issue, 10 days before the election, of the Social Security act that had been passed for more than a year."

Although professing to have no particular interest in who is to head the national committee for the next four years, the editorial association stated Ohio Republicans demand "to know what the head or chairman of this committee intends to do along the line of constructive party progress."

Defeat of Gov. Alf M. Landon was termed "inevitable," but the statement said there is a "pretty general conviction among rank and file critics that the resultant cataclysm, approaching annihilation, was probably unnecessary."

"It could, they believe, have been averted had the national committee had a proper conception of the magnitude of its task and the vision and the adaptability for thorough organization and for constructive education of the voters possessed by some of the political maestros of happier days."

FRENCH ASSIGN FIVE TO GUARD MRS. SIMPSON

CANNES, France, Dec. 14—(UP)—Mrs. Wallis Simpson lost her two Scotland yard bodyguards today but got five French surety general operatives instead.

It was learned that British authorities called the Scotland yard men home, declining to take further responsibility for Mrs. Simpson's safety.

A deluge of threatening letters has continued during her stay here, awaiting a final divorce decree so that she can marry the Duke of Windsor—Edward VIII.

As soon as she learned that the Scotland yard men were going home she appealed to the French government for protection and the five detectives arrived to take over.

Mrs. Buchanan Merriman of Washington, D. C., Mrs. Simpson's aunt who acted as her chaperon during her last weeks in London, is expected here this week. Mrs. Simpson's servants arrived from London today.

OHIO EDUCATOR DENIES CHARGE OF MISCONDUCT

WEST UNION, Dec. 14—(UP)—C. O. Williams, superintendent of schools at nearby Winchester, O., today denied charges of misconduct brought against him by four women teachers.

Grade and high school students went on strike last week in sympathy with the four teachers who filed affidavits with the Winchester board of education stating that Williams had made improper advances to them while under the influence of liquor.

Student strike leaders said 300 joined the walkout. Kirk Short, board of education president, said between 50 and 60 pupils walked out. He said he expected them to return to classes today.

KAI-SHEK FREE, REPORT Counter-Revolt by Young General Rumored

TOKYO, Dec. 14—(UP)—The American and British consulates at Shanghai today sent urgent advice to their nationals in Shensi province, far western China, to evacuate as soon as possible, the Domei (Japanese) news agency reported.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 14—(UP)—Persistent but unconfirmed reports were current in Chinese military circles today that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek had escaped from his captors at Sian-Fu, in Shensi province, and had flown to Nanking in safety.

Chinese military sources regarded as ordinarily reliable said at Peiping that a subordinate of Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang had staged a counter-revolt at Sian-Fu and released Generalissimo Chiang. The Chinese claimed that the "young general" himself was not "detained" by Chiang Kai-Shek.

Counter Revolt Opens
The counter-revolt against Marshal Chang also was reported at the national capital in Nanking. The former Manchurian chieftain's men were said to have turned now on him, the uprising spreading through Shensi province from Sian-Fu, the provincial capital.

The initial insurrection led by Marshal Chang at Sian-Fu over the week-end was described by a high Chinese official in the central government this afternoon as a direct result of criticism of the marshal's desultory drive against Chinese communists in Shensi province.

"Judging from the facts so far available," the official at Nanking said, "Marshal Chang's command at Sian-Fu effected some arrangement with the reds, claiming the object was to fight Japan."

"The spark of the revolt without doubt was fired by the generalissimo's outspoken direct criticism of the failure of the Chang command to press the anti-Communist campaign. For some time, this command's participation in the red drive in China has been negative."

BRITAIN'S GUNS HONOR BIRTHDAY OF NEW RULER

LONDON, Dec. 14—(UP)—Guns thundered throughout Great Britain today in honor of the 41st birthday of the new king, George VI.

Queen Elizabeth was suffering a mild attack of influenza which will keep her in the family home at 145 Piccadilly.

But there was a quiet lunch there and flags flew throughout the kingdom in the king's honor. At his own request, there was no other celebration except for the royal salutes.

A salute of 41 guns, one for each year of the king's life, roared almost in the ears of the queen and the two little princesses, Elizabeth and Margaret Rose, who are the heirs to the throne, from Hyde Park. There was a salute of 62 guns at the tower of London, in the old city of London—a salute of 21 guns in addition to the birthday salute. There were 21 gun salutes at all army posts in the country.

BOMB IN PACKAGE TURNS OUT TO BE WRIST WATCH

NEW YORK, Dec. 14—(UP)—A strained voice informed Howard S. McGrath by telephone that a package had been left on his doorstep. Suspicious, he noticed that the package looked and threw it quickly into water. Police came and soaked it in a bucket of water for two hours. Then, opened with extreme care, the package revealed a wrist watch, the present of a timid suitor to McGrath's daughter.

THREE AND HALF MILLIONS READY FOR FARM HELP

Electrification Becomes Huge Project as Ohio Residents Take Advantage

MANY LINES IN USE

Bids Called for in 5-County Southcentral Area

COLUMBUS, Dec. 14 — "Rapidly mounting records of completed farm bureau electrification projects received at state headquarters for inspection, of approvals and allotments for construction received from Washington, and of calls for staking-charts and construction bids all give mute but impressive evidence of the continual spread of cooperative electricity to all parts of the state," declared Harry West, president of the Farm Bureau Rural Electrification Cooperative, Inc., state-wide co-ordinating service organization for electric co-ops.

With the allotment by REA on December 7 of $285,000 for construction of lines in Williams and Defiance counties, a total of more than three and one-half million dollars has now been allocated for projects under construction or ready for operations to begin, according to Mr. West.

Lines About Completed

Lines are practically completed in Miami and Shelby counties, and more than 1,500 farm homes are already receiving power in those counties over co-op lines, which were erected at a cost of $679,000 and will eventually serve 2,000 farms. Champaign county lines will be completed within the present month, will cost $520,000 and will serve approximately 1,400 farm homes.

Other projects already under construction are Lorain, Medina and Holmes counties, which are expected to be completed soon after January 1, 1937. Together, these counties will provide electricity for 2,100 members, at a construction cost of $747,000.

Bids for construction contracts have been called for on or before December 17 for the Inter-County Rural Electric Cooperative project, serving Ross, Fayette, Pike, Highland and Clinton counties. Staking has been started on this project as well as on those of the Western Rural Electric Cooperative, serving Mercer, Auglaize, Allen, Hardin and Van Wert counties; and the Butler County Rural Electric Cooperative. REA allotments on these projects total $898,000.

Other Allotments

Additional allotments made during the last few weeks include Delaware Rural Electric Cooperative, $240,000; Marion Rural Electric Cooperative, $265,000 and the Northwestern Rural Electric Cooperative, just made. Preparations are under way for beginning construction on those projects early in 1937.

Completed projects, including both those for which allocations have been made by REA and those which have been registered but have not received grants, provide plans for electrifying a total of 21,342 farm homes throughout Ohio. Of these 11,347 are provided for in allotments already made for construction, Mr. West said.

Charles Butterworth

Fred Astaire

THE lugubrious Butterworth sadly co-operates with peppy Fred Astaire to make another Tuesday evening radio hour popular with listeners. Even Fred looks none too jolly, but we'll bet the listeners are in stitches.

Opera, coast-to-coast concert tours, broadcasting appearances on the Voice of Firestone programs and starring roles in several outstanding pictures.

Her latest picture "Champagne Waltz" to be released shortly, is being billed as Paramount's Silver Jubilee production. In this picture, Miss Swarthout will record her songs in five languages, English, French, Spanish, German and Italian — for the foreign versions.

Gladys Swarthout's first long term radio contract started with the Voice of Firestone in June 1934. She shared the program with Richard Crooks, famous tenor, now the leading star of the Firestone hour.

For her program Monday night, over the NEC-Red network at 8:30 P.M., Miss Swarthout will sing "Estrellita" by Ponce; "Moon Melody" by Broome; "Amour Viens Aider" by Saint-Saens; "Could I Be In Love" by Daly; Miss Swarthout and Margaret Speaks will sing "Barcarolle" from "Tales of Hoffman" by Offenbach. The Firestone Choral Symphony will offer "Cibibiribin" by Respaldosa.

NEW WICKER SERIES

A new program, a series of musical plays based on great operas and familiar stories, will be presented by Irene Wicker, the Singing Lady, beginning Christmas Day. The broadcasts will be presented weekly over the NEC Blue

Network on Fridays from 5:15 to 5:45 p. m. (E.S.T.)

The program, it is believed, will fill a long-felt need of American children, their mothers and teachers, for plays based upon really fine music, which they themselves can act and sing. In working out the idea of a new series, Miss Wicker found, to her surprise, that there were no simplified adaptations of the great operas originally made from children's stories, and very few musical plays of any kind for children which could be adapted for radio presentation.

The new series will not supplant the regular Singing Lady broadcasts, which will continue at the usual 5:20-5:45 p. m. period on Mondays through Thursdays. The new program will take the place of the Friday afternoon broadcast, and will be, in effect, a Singing Lady broadcast on a more elaborate scale.

ELECTORS MEET TO NAME F.D.R. NEXT PRESIDENT

Ballot to be 523 Against Eight for Mr. Landon in Final Tally

CHANGE IN SYSTEM URGED

Results of Vote to be Known on January 6

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(UP)—Presidential electors met today in 48 states to re-elect President Franklin Delano Roosevelt and Vice-President John Nance Garner.

The result will be Roosevelt and Garner 523, Gov. Alf M. Landon and Frank Knox, Republican nominees, 8. Maine and Vermont will cast the Republican votes.

As electors voted, agitation was started to alter the antiquated and cumbersome system.

Sen. George W. Norris, Ind., Neb., plans a law to have the people ballot directly for president and vice-president, counting the state electoral vote as at present. This would remove the long list of electors from the ballot.

Rep. Clarence Lea, D., Calif., proposed to divide the electoral vote in the same proportion as the state's popular vote. Other legislators favor election by a direct popular vote.

The original intention of the elector system was that each state would select responsible citizens equal to its congressional representation as electors, thus keeping selection of a president and vice-president out of the hands of the people.

Results of today's balloting will be tabulated Jan. 6 at a joint session of the senate and house. When tellers announce the final result, Garner, who presides over the senate, will declare Mr. Roosevelt and himself elected.

A meeting of field men and committeemen will be held in Columbus, December 17 and 18, for a discussion of the agricultural conservation program proposed for 1937.

Members of the staff of Ohio State University will furnish the broadcast to be sent over a net work of 53 stations on the National Farm and Home Hour at 12:30 to 1:30 p. m. January 20.

Ohio farmers will receive nearly two dollars for products sold in 1932, and the department of rural economics at Ohio State University says that farm recovery in Ohio has proceeded further than in most other farm states.

Farmers who wonder why some statistics on farm prices and crop conditions are not right up to the minute are told by the bureau of agricultural economics, Washington, D. C., that price reports are received from reporters in nearly every township in the United States and that it takes two weeks to read the material and summarize it.

More funds will be available this year in Ohio for research work at the agricultural experiment station under the provisions of the Bankhead-Jones law that appropriations for this purpose shall increase each year until a specified maximum is reached. The money is apportioned in the states on a basis of rural population if the state matches the federal appropriation.

Lost to Aviation

DEATH of Juan de la Cierva, above, Spanish inventor of the autogyro, is a heavy loss to the aviation world. He was among the 15 persons killed when a Royal Dutch airliner crashed in flames after taking off at Croydon, England, airport. The disaster was one of the worst in British air history.

FILM PRODUCER OFFERS EDWARD, WALLY MILLION

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 14.—(UP)—There's haven and fortune — a mansion and $1,000,000 — for the Duke of Windsor and Mrs. Wally Simpson in Hollywood.

Arthur Wenzel, film promoter, revealed today that he had cabled the offers to both the former King Edward VIII and Mrs. Simpson to come here and play in a film to be called "The Right to Love."

Wenzel complained that the abdicated king had not answered a previous offer but that the ante had been raised in the new offer of stardom.

"I'm offering a Hollywood mansion and $1,000,000," Wenzel said. "That sounds like a great deal, but he's worth it."

His computations were made, Wenzel said, on what had been paid the Dionne quintuplets. "I figure he'd be at least twice as good as the Dionne quintuplets, and they got $500,000," he said. "We both could make a lot of money — and he may need it now that he has resigned, you know."

He said the offer was backed by "three wealthy Hollywood men" whose names he could not reveal unless the offer is accepted.

"We've got the dough," Wenzel assured.

ASHVILLE SCHOOL NEWS

Pupils of the fourth grade received letters from boys and girls in the Seneca Indian school, Wyandotte, Okla. They told them about their school work. Some Indian designs and posters were also sent. Plans are for the pupils to answer their letters and tell them of their plans in their school.

Twenty-five booklets were received this week from the American Education Press. They have stories on all subjects of interest in geography and science. They bought these during Book Week. Each booklet cost the owner ten cents.

The following eighth grade pupils received "Perfect Spelling" pencils for the second six weeks of school: Orie Burton, Marilyn Hedgson, Ruth Rinehart, Jane Stevenson, and George Forquer.

Orie Burton, Jane Stevenson, and George Forquer had "G" averages for the second six weeks period.

We are very glad to have Dr. Kearns' report that not one of the seven pupils x-rayed on Wednesday of last week showed any signs of active tuberculosis. These seven and the thirty four others who volunteered for the T. B. skin test now have a knowledge of their physical condition which the other pupils do not have and it knowledge well worth having.

Jean and Betty Brinker entered Ashville school Monday Dec. 7. Jean in the 10th grade and Betty in the 8th grade.

MADRID CLAIMS ACE'S AIRPLANE DOWNED IN DUEL

Whether Franco Was Killed is Not Learned by Federal Army

TROOPS ARE SNOWBOUND

Insurgent Airdromes Raided by Eight Big Ships

MADRID, Dec. 14.—(UP)—An official government communique claimed today that the airplane of Major Ramon Franco, Spain's premier flyer and brother of the rebel commander-in-chief, had been shot down.

The war office reported that government pursuit ships cornered the "White Dove" as Franco called his ship, in a "dog fight" over Madrid and that it had crashed in landing near Laguna De Santilana Sierran, north of Madrid in rebel territory.

Two persons were in the airplane. One was killed and one escaped, the report said. The government admitted it had been unable to identify either man but it was thought Franco would have been in his own ship.

Hero in Morocco
Franco became a hero the Moroccan war and a still greater national figure in 1926 when he flew 6,230 miles across the Atlantic from Spain to Buenos Aires over the route followed by Christopher Columbus.

The government forces had been keeping a close watch on Franco. Only last week it was announced that he had landed in Spain after flying from Morocco. Previously he had been reported on diplomatic missions in Italy and Germany.

At the beginning of the civil war, Franco was in Washington where he was air attaché of the Spanish embassy. He had led a revolt against King Alfonso in 1931 and was in the good graces of the Republican government. But soon after the start of the war he was dismissed, after which he joined his rebel brother.

Although most of the troops in the north were snowbound, the government pushed its drive on Burgos, the rebel capital, on land, where possible, and in the air, while the Madrid front was occupied only with occasional artillery bombardments and airplane attacks of a harassing nature.

Five government bombers and eight pursuit ships raided insurgent airdromes near Vitoria over the week-end destroying landing fields, shooting down two rebel pursuit ships and losing one bomber.

FORMER WARDEN, JUDGE APPLAUD SCOUTING WORK

Business men and civic leaders interested in promoting Scouting in Circleville and Pickaway county will be interested in two letters received by Fred C. Clark from Preston E. Thomas, Columbus, former warden of Ohio penitentiary, and Judge Frank M. Clevenger, Wilmington.

"The records of the Ohio Penitentiary and the Ohio State Reformatory fail to show any inmate who was once a Boy Scout," Mr. Thomas wrote. "It is a work that will live forever, as long as one person has an influence over another. It is a consolation to know you are aiding in the work of prevention, preventing criminal tendencies by proper character building."

The letter from Judge Clevenger states in his experience on the bench he has had only one Boy Scout before him. "I look upon Boy Scout work as the finest activity in which a man can engage. It is the greatest builder of clean, high class manhood of which I have any knowledge. I recommend it heartily," the judge wrote.

Further development of the district organization will be the principal business before a meeting of the district committee Monday at 6:30 p. m. in the New American Hotel coffee shop.

HURRY!

THE old reasons for doing your Christmas shopping early are too well known to need repetition. It's unfair to already overworked clerks to wait until the last day to dash around to the stores for this and that and a dozen other things. It's being thoughtless of the overworked postal employees to wait until two days before Christmas to mail Christmas packages. It's easier on your nerves and disposition generally to do your shopping before the last,
 hectic days.

In fact, these reasons are so well known
and have been blazoned so repetitiously
upon the pages of newspapers for years
that they are now regarded as hackneyed
stuff and nobody pays any attention to them.

But there is a real reason this year to do your Christmas shopping as early as it still can be done, and it has nothing to do with sentiment or good fellowship. It is merely this: Christmas business, everywhere, has been so far ahead of all expectations that some lines are already exhausted in some stores, and many others
will be momentarily in many stores.

DOUBLE TAXATION

IT is significant, though by no means surprising, that the Treasury Department should reveal, following an intensive five-year survey, that American citizens are to a large extent the victims of double taxation. The departmental probe has discovered, indeed, that added tribute is paid to the Federal Government on two-thirds of the taxes collected by the States.

Here, certainly, is a fiscal problem that calls for early solution. Tax oppression will become increasingly aggravated so long as the various divisions of government keep horning in on the same sources
of revenue.

Precisely how these sources of governmental income can be divided so as to avert double taxation and at the same time
provide for basic Federal, State and local services is admittedly a baffling problem.
But a consistent effort must be made to solve it if the tax load is to be equitably distributed.

One suggestion is that the Federal Government concentrate on the larger income
and estate groups, leaving the smaller to the lesser units of public administration
where regulatory control is easier because it comes closer to home.

But whatever is done to eliminate present inequities, there should be a sustained drive against double taxation. The average citizen is already so over-burdened with the cost of living that he simply cannot afford to pay twice or thrice at every turn.

ful winter morning. Breakfast
on prunes, which thoroughly detest, but which do take because of their medicinal value, and toast and coffee. A brief session with the morning papers and
then out and around the ville,
finding everything serene.

Do miss the snow that is the cap sheaf of Christmas atmosphere, but it may be a late shopper like us. And also miss the detailed Spanish war news
we were getting in such copious quantities before Edward Windsor took over the front page.
Eddie was and is big news, of course, but the Spanish revolt
has all the earmarks of a fuse
that may set off another world
war.

Seeing Guy Pettit's prize
Pennsylvania deer the other day recalled an amusing incident of a few years ago in Auglaize county. Bill Jasperson, a big promoter on Lake St. Marys, went into Canada with a party of friends and spent three weeks

later returned with his friends
intact and a half dozen deer.
Sonny Neely, son of the mayor of St. Marys, was at the railway station when the deer were being unloaded from the express car. A wit standing near him remarked: "I think Bill and those other fellows are damned
inconsiderate to go up to the North Pole and shoot Santa's reindeer. There's Blitzen, Francer and the others dead as door-
nails." Shortly afterward Mrs.
Jasperson heard a great carrying-on in her back yard and hurried out. Sonny had Billy Jaspersen, Jr., on the ground and was beating him, at the same time shouting: "I'll teach you to let your old father shoot Santa's reindeer." And it was at least two years before either Sonny
or Billy could understand why
the oldsters got such a laugh
out of the incident.

Met up with a strange beggar on the street, a slightly more than mature coon dog. I always have hoped that no one by looking at me could tell that I prefer coon hunting to any other form of the chase, but that dog
knew. He circled me twice, sat down and barked "tree". That's music, surpassed only by Kreisler and his violin. The pup had his lunch up a "tree" and knew

it: the best that a quarter could buy, and he ate it all, later
spending a half hour with me in the office and then going on
about his own affairs.

Received an invitation to attend the fox chase up South Bloomfield way and intend participating, for never have been in on such an event. Always have enjoyed association with farmers in their own environment. No one, it seems to me,
is quite so comfortable or so good a companion as a farmer
on his own or adjacent acres.
And good farmers will direct the fox drive.

Now that the Christmas buying rush is under way do feel more like doing the necessary shopping. Really, part of the holiday fun is being trampled on,
elbowed and shoved back from the prize articles. It appears that few of us wish anything
unless a lot of other folk also wish it. Well, now is the time to start. The big annual battle is on.

JUNIOR EXECUTIVES TO QUIT

WASHINGTON—When the President
returns to his heavily laden desk, he faces one urgent problem that has attracted little public notice.

This is retaining in the New Deal a number of ace junior executives.

Much has been written about possible cabinet changes. That the President's senior official family needs strengthening
is a fact Roosevelt himself knows only too well. Yet the problem of retaining in his Administration the corps of brilliant and hard-working second-string officials is far more important at the moment than overhauling the cabinet.

The reason is simple.
It is these junior executives who are carrying the real administrative load of the regime. Their loss would be a great blow.

Particularly is this true in such departments as Commerce, Justice and Labor
where the top bosses are bumbling and incompetent. For example:

The brains and driving force of the Labor Department are Assistant Secretary
Edward F. McGrady and Dr. Isador Lub-
in, commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

These two aces, one a labor authority
and the other a statistical genius, are solely responsible for the department's effectiveness. Without them Miss Perkins would be a dismal flop. McGrady has worked tirelessly for four years without a vacation, while Miss Perkins has been absent from her office for week at a time
delivering lectures or attending conferences in Europe.

In the Justice Department the situation
is much the same.

A group of talented young lawyers,
headed by Assistant Attorney General
Robert Jackson, are carrying the legal burden of the government—while amiable, indolent Homer Cummings makes himself
pleasant to politicians and socialites.

RESTIVE

The President is in real danger of losing
these junior executives.

In fact, the exodus has already begun.
Judge John J. Burns, able general counsel of the Securities and Exchange Commission, has resigned to return to private law practice, and is taking three of his brightest aides with him. Reginald Laughlin, talented assistant general counsel of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, is departing. The Treasury has lost to a Washington law firm John G. Harlan,
assistant to its general counsel.

And McGrady, Jackson and Lubin have told the President they are planning to resign.

Underlying this restiveness are two reasons: First, discouragement over post-election policy trends of the White House; second, lack of recognition for their signal
services.

The President's covert slashing of work-
relief rolls has had a terrifically depressing effect on his more idealistic lieutenants.

McGrady and Jackson have had several lucrative business offers.

Later: "My arms identical to

When his sister came in a little later, she found him dead.

This is probably as near a description of a complete attack of angina pectoris as we will ever get. Many physicians have described diseases in their own person and added greatly to our knowledge thereby. The first account of hay fever was that written by John Bostock, a doctor who described his own case. I have in my files a wonderful description of a lifetime with migraine in his own person described by Dr. Sidney Kuh. Also a description of practically a lifetime of angina by Dr. E. Fletcher Ingalls of Chicago.

The last words Dr. Ingalls wrote were, "The pain finally attacks the vagus and the heart is stopped,
stung to death by pain." A month
after this was published, Dr.
Ingalls was dead.

Graphic but Fictional

A graphic account, although fictional, is that in the story called
"The Surgeon Talks" in "Round
the Red Lamp": "Men die of the diseases which they have studied most . . . You couldn't have a clearer case than that of poor old Walker of St. Christopher's. . . .
Walker was one of the best men
in Europe on nervous disease. . . .
I was his clinical assistant at the time. Walker was lecturing on locomotor ataxia to a warful of youngsters. He was explaining that one of the early signs of the complaint was that the patient
could not put his heels together
with his eyes shut without staggering. As he spoke, he suited the action to the word. I don't suppose the boys noticed anything. I did, and so did he, though he finished his lecture without a sign.

"When it was over he came into my room and lit a cigaret."

"Just run over my reflexes, Smith," said he.

"There was hardly a trace of them left. I tapped away at his knee-tendon, and might as well have tried to get a jerk out of that sofa-cushion. He stood with his eyes shut again, and he awayed
like a bush in the wind."

"It took five years to kill him,
and he stood it well. He kept an immaculate record of his own symptoms, and worked out the eye
changes more fully than has ever been done. When the plot got very bad he would hold his eyelid
up with one hand while he wrote.
Then, when he could not co-ordinate his muscles to write, he dictated to his nurse. So died, in the odour of science, James Walker,
age 45."

Poems That Live

CEREMONIES FOR CHRISTMAS
Come, bring with a noise.
My merry, merry boys,
The Christmas log to the firing;
While my good dame, she
bids ye all be free;
And drink to your hearts' desiring.

With the last year's brand
Light the new block, and
For good success in his spending.
On your psalmies play.
That sweet luck may Come while the log is a-tending.

Drink now the strong beer,
Cut the white loaf here,
The while the meat is a-shredding;
For the rare mince pie
And the plums stand by
To fill the paste that's a-kneading.

CHAPTER 22

"BUT YOU can't stay here
alone," Colindale told Hilda when she suggested his going away for a while. "What about the estate?"

"I shall manage," she said, with a faint smile, eager now that she was gaining her point. "There will be a lot to see to, and that will keep me busy. And there are the children—"

"If you wish it, then," Eric said,
with a secret sense of relief. "I don't want to appear mercenary,
but did the lawyer fellow give you any idea of how much the allowance will come to?"

"More than I thought—a thousand pounds a year for each of the children. That will be paid over to me, and all I have to do is to furnish a statement half-yearly showing the way in which the money has been spent."

"That sounds simple enough," Colindale remarked, as though the subject was not of great interest
to him.

"The you agree to the arrangements?" Hilda asked eagerly,
searching the stern face of her
agent.

"Yes. It seems the best thing to do. When do you think I had better clear off?"

"Now, at once!" Her voice became insistent, urgent, and her eyes glowed with sudden expectancy.

"Come, Hilda, that's rather sudden."

"Please, please—for my sake.
Don't you see the position has become impossible? You can't stay on here as agent now, and you can't live here with no one but Sylvia and the children. Surely you can see that for yourself!"

A slow, cunning smile spread over the man's face, which he hid
with his hand, as though thinking
over the proposition.

"There is the rather sordid question of funds."

"I have money. The lawyer advanced me a sum for current expenses, and I had some in my bank."

"Very good, Hilda, if you wish
it. I shall stay at my club until I hear from you, and then I will let you know my plans. How long ought I to stay away?"

Hilda looked away from him, hesitating. "A year, Eric. I want
time to readjust my mental balance. This terrible murder has upset me more than I thought possible."

"Very well, then, a year, unless something intervenes to bring me
back."

"Eric, I want it—it's hard to say—I want you come back I want you to find me not the dowdy figure in black I am now, hollow-eyed, and miserable. I want to be worthy of you. Now you understand."

"We'll sign the document, then,"
he said, with a laugh. "We had better send for James, unless he sends for us—it's a devilish awkward position."

"I'll ring," Lady Severinge declared with spirit. "He's the butler still."

James came in answer, demure
and sedate as he had always been,
and said quietly, "You rang for me, m'lady?"

"Yes, James. You see, the position is rather awkward now. My late husband has left you a considerable amount of money, and I am to draw the allowances for the children from you through the lawyer. Of course, you won't care

"This terrible murder has upset me more than I thought possible."

to stay after this."

James stood rigid by the door,
which he had closed behind him.

"If you will pardon my saying so, m'lady, I do not see that the money makes any difference. I am quite happy here, and if you wish it, am content to stay on."

"But not as butler, surely,
James?" Colindale intervened.

"As butler. Perhaps you are hardly aware of the fact that for some time my poor old master was in the habit of placing his affairs
in my hands, and I have been more or less in control of everything except the outdoor staff. I should not like to leave the Abbey,
to which I am deeply attached."

"I think it is very good of you,
James, and I am all the more grateful, as Mr. Colindale will be going away for a fairly long holiday, so I shall be all alone. I would be glad if you would carry on as you have done in the past."

James bowed gravely. "Thank you, m'lady. I should not like to leave this house until the mystery surrounding the murder of my master has been solved."

Colindale started at the words.
Somehow the murder had sunk to the background with the urgent need to come to a decision with regard to the immediate future.

"Then I am afraid," Colindale
said, "you must make up your mind to spending the rest of your life here."

James ignored the remark, without rudeness, however, and turned to Lady Severinge. "Then I am
to understand that you will accede
to my request, m'lady?" he said
sincerely.

"Certainly, and may I say this,
James"—Lady Severinge spoke feelingly—"I think you have put it most courteously, considering that you are practically master of the house?"

"Thank you, m'lady. I shall not exceed my duties, nor interfere in any way. You may rely on my
services."

He backed out of the room as though from the presence of royalty, and Colindale stared out.
"Damned old humbug! Of course
he wants to stay and keep an eye on the place. Wait till we are married, Hilda; I shall have something to say to Master James."

Hilda made no reply. It was what she had feared, and one of the reasons she had suggested Colindale going away for a year.
It would give time for them all to adjust their new relations.

Colindale found the twins rejoicing in their new-found liberty.
Sylvia had gone to attend to her duties, and the nursery was in a fine state of uproar.

"Oh, Uncle Eric," they shouted,
"come and have a game with us!
We are playing at funerals, and you're just in time."

"You young imps! I'm not deaf,

Friends Help Jane Paul Observe Her Birthday

Happy Evening Spent by Fourteen Girls at Pontius Home

Thirteen young friends of Jane Paul, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Pontius, W. High street, were asked to help her in the celebration of her birthday anniversary, Saturday evening. The guests gathered at the Pontius home at seven o'clock.

They were entertained for the early hours of the evening at a theater party. After the theater, they returned to the Pontius home, where they showered the young hostess with an assortment of beautiful gifts. When the gifts had been opened and admired, the guests were invited to the dining room where they were all seated at one long table. The table was attractively arranged, having a center decoration of silver flowers on a gleaming mirror. It was lighted with red candles in brass candelabra, and also held the birthday cake, topped with 15 lighted candles, which was the center of interest for each guest.

Hand-decorated cards, the work of Miss Paul, marked each place. The plates on which the dessert course was served, held miniature birds carrying lighted candles, which were presented to the girls, as favors.

The birthday cake contained three gifts, Jane Paul receiving the thimble, Eleanor McDill the ring and Martha Miller the coin. At the conclusion of the lunch all joined in singing a birthday greeting. The remainder of the evening was spent telling fortunes and dancing.

Present were Eleanor McDill, Martha Miller, Bonnie Loudon, Marilyn Lutz, Regina Thornton, Joan Conyers, Sallie Shafer, Betty Bennett, Peggy Goeller, Jane Klingensmith, Mary Fickard, Betty Cooper, Mary Jane Brown, and the hostess.

Dinner Party

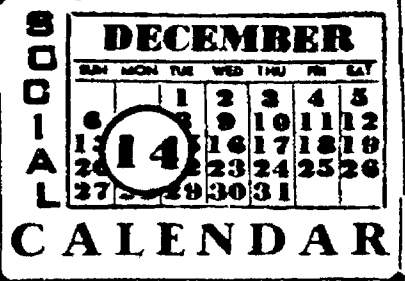

Miss Carolyn Bohard, Williamsport, worthy matron of Heber Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, entertained her corps of officers at her home last Friday evening. Dinner was served at four small tables beautiful in Christmas decorations and centered with red rosebuds and fern. Favors were miniature Christmas trees attached to boxes of candy.

Miss Bohard presented each of her officers with beautiful card cases bearing the emblem of the order in gold. Following the dinner, gifts from the officers were presented to both Miss Bohard, and her father, George Bohard, who is worthy patron of the same chapter.

Mrs. Ethel McKinley, warder, also presented a gift to the matron.

Several rounds of bridge were enjoyed, high score prizes being won by Mrs. Harry J. Smith, Mrs. George Lemay, and Leroy Hammack. Mrs. Olive Hurst was recipient of the traveling prize.

The 1936 officers of the order who were present to enjoy the occasion were Mrs. H. W. Campbell, Mrs. Eugene Alkire, Mrs. Edna H. Newhouse, Mrs. Lee Luelien, Mrs. Harry Smith, Mrs. Fannie Marcy, Mrs. Hurst, Mrs. Hammack, Mrs. J. McKinley, Mrs. M.

JOE LOUIS QUOTED 6 TO 1 FAVORITE TO WIN FROM EDDIE SIMMS

10,000 TO SEE "HEAVY" FIGHT IN CLEVELAND

Brown Bomber Must Watch Wild Swings of Young, Aggressive Slugger

EARLY KAYO POSSIBLE

Arthur Donovan Imported to Referee Contest

CLEVELAND, Dec. 14.—(UP)—Joe Louis is a 6-1 favorite to beat Eddie Simms, Cleveland heavyweight, in their 10-round bout tonight in Public Hall.

More than 11,000 fans are expected to contribute a gate of $52,000 to witness the brown bomber's Cleveland fight debut against the rugged, wild-swinging hometown Slovenian.

Despite the lona odds, Simms is given a chance to knock out Louis if the angular, brown-haired contender can land one of his looping rights on shuffling Joe's somewhat fragile chin. In this connection, it is recalled that Max Schmeling kayoed the Detroit negro and Jorge Brescia staggered him in the brown bomber's last fight.

Needs Early Kayo

Simms' lone hope for victory appears to be a kayo in the early rounds. In previous bouts, Eddie displayed a tendency to tire after the half-way mark was reached. Because Eddie is a swinger, instead of a straight puncher, most boxing writers are dubious of his ability to make a target of Joe's jaw.

The explosive qualities in Simms' blows are attested by 27 knockouts in 51 professional bouts. The 25-year-old erstwhile commercial accordion player has had five years' pro experience. Meanwhile 22-year-old Joe Louis will be trying for his 27th knockout in 32 starts.

Simms is a rugged chap who may provide stiffer opposition than expected. Only one knockout is registered against his record. That occurred in his first professional fight. In his last bout, three weeks ago in Pittsburgh, Leroy Haynes, hard-hitting Philadelphia negro, won a close decision over Simms after flooring the Clevelander three times.

At today's weighing in ceremonies, Louis expected to scale about 204 pounds and Simms about 195.

This will be jolting Joe's last bout of 1936. After the holidays he expects to embark on a busy campaign that will take him to all sections of the country—now that the New York Boxing commission has forbidden him to fight Champion James J. Braddock at Atlantic City in February.

Louis and his managers hope to have at least one match a month until September, when the bomber is expected to tangle for the title with the winner of the June tilt between Braddock and Schmeling.

Arthur Donovan has been imported from New York to referee tonight's Milk Fund show, sponsored by the Cleveland News.

WILLIE MACFARLANE LEADS

NASSAU, Bahamas, Dec. 14.—(UP)—Willie MacFarlane led a field of crack pros into the final round of the $4,000 Nassau open golf tournament today. MacFarlane, Hollywood, Fla., held a one-stroke advantage after 36 holes of sub-par shooting yesterday. His Sunday card of 64-68 gave him a 54-hole total of 200, four under par at the three-quarter mark in the tourney.

How About Premium on Long Shots?; Basket from 40 Feet Could Count Two; That Would Invite Boys to Throw It

By WALTER JOHNS
That successful basketball leader, Claire Bee, head coach of the Long Island university team which has rung up 35 victories without a defeat, says that it is offensive basketball, with the emphasis on the long shot, which made the cage sport a major winter athletic tidbit.

We find no fault in that and heartily second the motion. However, here's a suggestion which we think may make basketball even more thrilling to spectators.

Count Long Shots Three

Our suggestion is offered with

About This And That In Many Sports

Just Some Guesses

A FEW PREDICTIONS * * *
Pitt, Louisiana State and Marquette to win in the Rose Bowl, Sugar Bowl and Cotton Bowl games—Al Haft gets much more mazzuna out of the CAC cards than does the CAC, and why not? his boys put on the show—Dave Jackson will soon be seen at the starting center position on the high school varsity—Scioto township will finish the county cage schedule unbeaten, and will win The Herald's trophy for the next year; providing it can get by Perry township on the Atlanta court—A prediction not ours; Al Kauber, of Ashville, says his boys will take Scioto if they play again—He's looking toward tournament time * * *

A Real Program

Intramural basketball is starting at the high school, and it is hoped every boy who knows a basketball from a peashooter gets a chance to perform—There never was a better way to develop cagers than through intramural competition * * *

Tigers Mighty Crew

Predicting that Louisiana State would edge Santa Clara was no idle gesture—Texas Christian, picked to meet Marquette in a southern game, bumped the west coast outfit last Saturday—Coach Bernie Moore, of the Bayou Tigers, has a fine aerial circus, the same kind, in fact, that turned back the Santa Clara boys except that Sammy Baugh chuckles them for TCU—The Tigers, leading scorers in the Southeastern conference, tallied 42 touchdowns, 14 of which were through the air—Six of these were snatched by Twice-All-American End Gaynell Tinsley, of whom there is no one better—One of the tossed to Tinsley was for 78 yards, another for 55, and a third for 46—Who does the tossing was not reported, strangely * * *

CANNIBALS "NICE PEOPLE"
LONDON (UP)—The cannibals of Atchin, a South Pacific island, are "very nice people," John Layard, British anthropologist, who has lived with them for almost a year declares. He went unarmed to the island to study their customs.

TEXAS SMELTER BUSY
EL PASO, Tex. (UP)—Ore receipts have increased to such an extent that the El Paso smelter of the American Smelting and Refining Co. probably will continue operations indefinitely without the usual winter period shutdown.

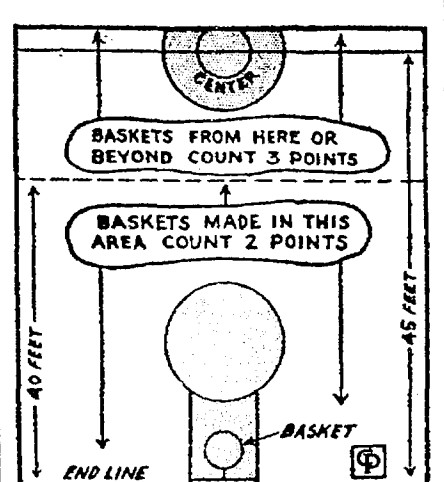

apologies to that grand old inventor of the game, Dr. James Naismith, whose basketball rules, with one exception, still are in force today. But, why not add one more scoring variation to the offensive side of the game, specifically, let a basket made by a long shot count three points instead of two?

Perhaps the thought isn't new, but if it isn't, it has been in moth balls for many years. We will explain:

To have a field goal from a distance count three, a new division or "foul" line would have to be marked out on either side of the center line.

How About 40 Feet?

We suggest the new dividing line be 40 feet out, as illustrated in the sketch of the court accompanying this piece. Generally speaking, collegians play on a court 90 feet long. That would still live a five-foot distance to the center of the floor.

Coaches today generally drill their players in short shots. Pass and pass and pass until you get into the open under or near the basket, is the word. But if a man can throw in a basket from 10 feet out, he can at 20 and, with practice, at 40. And consistently, too.

The offering of a point premium for a long shot shouldn't tend to disrupt team play nor damage, considerably, that other basketball fundamental, passing.

AKRON TO STAY OUT OF LEAGUE SEVERAL YEARS

COLUMBUS, Dec. 14.—(UP)—The myth of Buckeye conference expansion to an eight school circuit had been exploded here today at the conclusion of the league's annual winter meeting.

For the last two years talk has been rife of inviting two additional members into the conference, with the University of Toledo and Western Reserve as the favored choices.

When the University of Akron afloat the Ohio conference and it became almost a certainty the Zippers would receive the expulsion penalty handed them, it was thought probable the school might seek to ally with the Buckeye.

James W. Aiken, head coach and athletic director at Akron quieted those reports immediately following the Ohio conference decision.

"At this time we are not interested in gaining membership in the Buckeye or taking any toward the formation of a Northern Ohio conference. In another year or two we might however, seek some affiliation."

HEAVYWEIGHTS TOP CARD FOR C.A.C. PROGRAM

Jenson and Caddock Booked for Main-Go Monday; Card Begins 8:15

LOCAL YOUTHS TO BOX

Bernards, Hill and Blake Round Out Evening

Heavyweights predominate the card as the Circleville Athletic club sponsors another wrestling-boxing show starting at 8:15 o'clock this evening.

Leo Jensen, from Denmark, will tangle with Babe Caddock, nephew of Earl Caddock, former world's heavyweight champion, in the main event. The bout will be a one-fall one-hour limit affair.

In the semi-final, Jack Bernard, 180, of Boston, and Frank Hill, 177, of Carbondale, Ill., both known for their roughneck tactics, tangles, while George Bernard, 168, and Bob Blake, booked as one of the best prospects in Columbus in recent years, wind up the grunt program.

Two youthful pugs, Tiger Eddie Bird, managed by Earl Hussey, and Shirley Hulse, Jackson township flash, meet at 126 pounds in a four-round setto.

The C. A. C. has added extra bleachers in anticipation of a large crowd.

Next week a charity show is planned, more details to be announced later.

HERBER PASSES GREEN BAY '11' TO PRO HONORS

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(UP)—The Green Bay Packers, the big team from the little Wisconsin town, ruled the professional football world again today.

Champions of the National Professional league from 1929 through 1931, the Packers reascended the throne yesterday with a 21-6 victory over the Boston Red Skins in the annual east-west playoff.

It was Arnold Herber, a 26-year-old halfback who grew up in Green Bay, who led the Packers to their first championship since the playoff system was inaugurated in 1932.

A non-partisan crowd of 29,543 assembled in the Polo grounds saw Herber's bullet passes crack the sturdy Boston defense wide open with touchdown heaves in the first and third periods.

Herber, a stocky, curly-haired player, threw 14 passes and six of them clicked for 129 yards. Early in the first period he whizzed a 44-yard heave to Don Huston, Alabama's 1935 Rose Bowl hero, for Green Bay's first touchdown.

A few minutes later, Boston marched 95 yards to its lone score, with Pug Renner, former all-America player from Northwestern, doing most of the work and climaxing the drive by scoring from the one yard line on the first play of the second period.

Green Bay took the third period kickoff and marched 91 yards to a score with Herber passes accounting for 73 yards.

FRANCIS TO HEAD WESTERN STARS AGAINST EAST 11

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 14.—(UP)—Tireless Sam Francis, Nebraska's all-American fullback, today led the list of 21 western football stars invited to play in the east-west game here New Year's day.

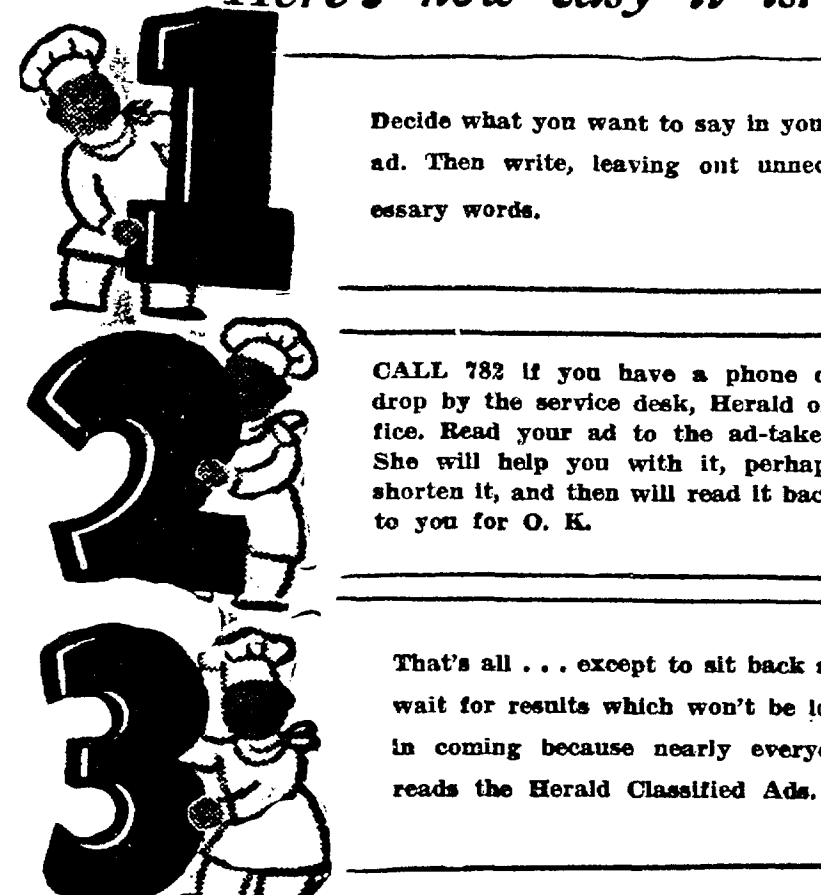

Ranking close behind Francis were Ed Goddard, Washington State's quarterback, and Sammy Baugh, all-American from Texas Christian university who piloted the Texans Saturday in breaking Santa Clara's undefeated record.

The invitations were divided between the far west and the region between the Rockies and the Mississippi river.

about, of course he was ready to meet the terms of the law. As all players will not see the grand slam as readily as the declarer did, follow the play specified here.

Win the club trick with declarer's Ace. Take two rounds of winning trumps. Take dummy's K of clubs. Have declarer ruff dummy's last club, for the fifth trick. Take two added rounds of trumps. Each player will hold the six cards shown in the diagram, provided he has discarded to best advantage. Dummy is in the lead, and declarer must take all remaining tricks. That is extremely simple.

As long as East holds both red Q's, there is a simple squeeze to make. Lead dummy's last trump. East must discard from one of his red suits, leaving that suit worth three tricks to declarer, if he will discard from the suit that East keeps guarded. Suppose that East elects to discard a diamond. Declarer must discard his lowest heart. Lead the K of diamonds. Lead dummy's last diamond and win with declarer's Ace. Lead the good 10 of diamonds. On it let go dummy's lowest heart. The last two tricks will go to the Ace and K of hearts. We should admire Mr. Brown's quick perception of his chance to make the grand slam.

EXTENSION AGENT WARNS FARMERS OF PROPER CARE FOR SEED CORN

MUCH OF CROP INJURED DURING COLD WEATHER

All Ears Should Be Tested For Germination Before Planting Time

MEETINGS ARE SCHEDULED

Rural Electrification Talk Planned Saturday

Farmers who have not yet selected and properly stored their seed corn for next spring, were warned to do so Monday by F. K. Blair, county extension agent. Considerable corn was damaged throughout Pickaway county by the severe cold weather last winter.

Ears that are suitable for seed should be selected and placed where they will dry thoroughly and will not be subjected to low temperatures. Artificial heat is not necessary unless the moisture content of the corn is above normal.

Should be Developed

If ears can be twisted in the hands, they should be discarded. Kernels which will make good seed should be fully developed and have a bright color characteristic of the variety. Blistered kernels, those which show starch through the seed coat, and those which are extremely rough are unsuitable for seed. A few kernels from each ear should be examined to be sure the germ is alive. Live germs are white, have a waxy texture, and may be shaved off like soap. Yellow or brown germs are badly weakened or dead, and the ears that show such useless kernels should be discarded.

Every ear of seed corn should be tested for germination long before planting time. Ohio corn is much better this year than last but no corn is safe to plant without testing.

Six meetings of importance to rural folk are on schedule this week.

Members of the Senior 4-H club will meet at Jackson school Monday at 8 p. m. Mrs. Mary Gerlaugh, of the extension department of Ohio State university, will speak on manners and etiquette.

Members of the New Holland Institute committee will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Joe Owens, near the village, to make plans for the event in January.

An achievement meeting for 4-H clubs of the Ashville district will be held in the school building Thursday at 7:30 p. m. All cattle feeders of the county are invited to attend a meeting Friday night in the Farm Bureau home when L. P. McCann of the extension department of Ohio State university, will discuss winter feeding and marketing.

Members of the county 4-H club council are invited to attend a district meeting to be held Saturday at Zanesville. The members of the local council are Anabelle Borch, Josephine Wolfe, Hewitt Cromley, Dorothy Miller and Wayne Brown.

County leaders under the rural electrification program will meet Saturday at 8 p. m. in the Farm Bureau home to discuss developments.

physicians, and the realization of the strain to which the duke had been subjected, those who have seen him here and since left the French coast Saturday have been astonished at his fortitude. Instead of looking like a man who had been through a historic ordeal, he looked instead younger than for years and he showed plainly that he felt he had thrown from his shoulders an intolerable burden.

Edward rose at 9 a. m. today in the ancient castle of his host, Baron Eugene Rothschild on a steep rock rising from the Danube plain from a spur on the Wisnerwald mountains.

He was seen to look from his window from the mist enshrouded castle, as if looking vainly for the sun. Then, it was learned, he paced his room for a few minutes—where he used to walk briskly in the gardens of Fort Belvedere outside London.

He breakfasted alone, as is the castle custom, and then began to deal with his heavy correspondence. He asked eagerly, on his arrival in Vienna last night, for messages and was grateful when handed a big bundle of telegrams. Aided by Gendarmes

It was a gray day, with the sky overcast and the clouds threatening rain or snow. The plain was bleak. But it was expected the duke would play a round of golf later in the day—the castle's private course, in which his little army of gendarmes protect his privacy, is the finest in Austria. It was hoped that he might motor to Vienna, 25 miles away later in the day.

On his arrival a little before midnight last night, Edward was taken by his host Baron Rothschild through the great marble hall to his room, decorated in yellow with yellow curtains, and with a yellow cover on the big bed. He went downstairs for a midnight dinner with the baron and baroness and a few friends. The dinner was brought by automobile from Vienna, accompanied by cooks.

Villagers have been warned to pay no attention to "a certain Mr. Edward." But so far as Ennsfeld is concerned he has not even abdicated. He is "your royal highness" when he is addressed directly. But behind his back he is "king." Still, Castle servants so refer to him over the telephone or in conversation in the village.

His presence has caused a hotel boom here in what is called the Vienna forest. Tourist, as well as newspaper correspondents, have flocked in such numbers to Ennsfeld and nearby villages that a heavy detail of policemen and gendarmes with rifles on which bayonets were fixed, arrived this morning.

The duke was understood to have telephoned Mrs. Wallis Simpson, at Cannes, soon after his arrival.

WILLIAM KING'S CLAIM REFUSED BY COMMISSION

The claim of William A. King, city, presented to the Ohio Industrial Commission for a broken neck suffered in a fall from a wagon of sheaf wheat while helping thresh on the farm of Walter A. Downing in Wayne township, July 6, 1934, and disallowed, later heard on his application for a rehearing, has again been disallowed by the commission. The last notice of the disallowance was received Saturday by Charles Gerhardt, attorney for Mr. Downing.

On the application for rehearing, testimony of Wayne township was taken before Referee Dewitt Adkins here during September, 1936, who recommended the commission reverse itself and allow the claim.

Later Mr. Downing requested a hearing before the entire commission, which was granted, and the case was presented to the entire commission on briefs. On Dec. 9, the commission again disallowed the claim. King may now appeal the case to the common pleas court.

Developments in the case are being closely watched by Pickaway county farmers because of the "threshing ring" angle.

G-MEN TO FILE CHARGES AFTER ELECTION PROBE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(UP)—Department of Justice agents are investigating charges of violation of the corrupt practices act in the New Jersey general election, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover announced today.

Federal agents were sent to Cape May, N. J., shortly after the Nov. 3 election at the request of the U. S. Attorney John J. Quinn of Trenton, Hoover said.

"Federal arrests will be made shortly and indictments will be sought on charges of violation of the bribery section of the corrupt practices act," he said.

Quinn reported to the department that his investigation has disclosed "some basis" for the bribery charges.
